"INSURGENTS" WIN 3 OF 9 DIRECTORS IN STANDARD POLAND-CHINA ELECTION

Considered Victory As Entire Board Was Unfavorable Before—Fight on Consolidation to Continue Until Annual Meeting in January

The "Insurgents" in the Standard Poland China Record association elected three of the new directors in the election held today under the auspices of the circuit court of Nodaway county. This probably means the re-election of Ray Davis as secretary and the dismissal of Frank Garrett, as assistant secretary because of his work against the administration.

The fight will undoubtedly go on until the next annual meeting here in January. The insurgents have won their chief desire of getting a minority representation of the board. The result does not necessarily mean consolidation, as this must be accomplished by a majority vote of all the stockholders.

The vote on the seven men nominated as members of the board from outside Missouri was: Sam McKelvie, 829; T. J. Dawe, 782; H. C. Lookabaugh, 636; L. R. McClarnon, 634; T. J. Melsner, 632; J. C. Meese, 613; O. E. Wade, 609. The last named, having the smallest vote, was defeated.

Two of Three for "Ins." The vote on the three Missouri members of the board of directors was as follows: N. I. Staples, 865; W. A. Baker, 622; W. B. Gex, 625; J. M. Andrews, 166. This was a victory of two out of three for the administration.

For the members of the board from other states four men were nominated by the administration and three by the insurgents with six to be elected. The four "ins" placed in nomination are H. C. Lookabaugh, L. R. McClarnon, T. J. Melsner and J. C. Meese. The three "outs" are Sam McKelvie, O. E. Wade and T. J. Wade.

Administration 396; Insurgents 366. At the close of the canvass of the ballots, Judge Mayer announced that the following men were entitled to vote the following proxies:

H. C. McKelvie, 137; C. H. Walker, 147; Ray Davis, 119; F. P. Robinson, 54; W. H. Gilbert, 51; H. C. Look-

The following had one proxy each: H. L. Faulkner, O. E. Wade, N. I. Staples, A. C. Barger, Alva Windom, D. J. Miller, E. Carver and Son, B. T. Wray, W. C. Pierce and C. D. Bellows. This made a total of 704 proxies, a record for elections of the association. About fifty are here in person.

Union Meeting on High School Lawn 7 to 8—Musical Program at First M. E. Church.

We arrived at Laredo at 11:15 o'clock, ate mess and waited for the second section which arrived about 1:30 o'clock.

We then detoured and marched to our camp. Hot, my goodness! sitting on a cook stove is a mild comparison. The dust was three to four inches deep until we reached the main street coming into camp. We pitched our "dog" tents, and crawled in out of the heat and waited for our baggage to arrive.

While we were waiting a sprinkle of rain fell which was welcome. After that our attention was attracted to our right and behind a large advertising sign board we saw something red. We looked again and made out a beckoning hand. In five minutes there was a "stream" of soldiers on the run. Somebody said "Watermelon." Gee, it was good! The women of Laredo served them. About 400 watermelons went out of existence in thirty minutes.

I went uptown Friday and Saturday afternoons with several of the boys and "took in" part of the city. In a town of 20,000 one would naturally expect pretty much of an up-to-date city. Well, maybe 15,000 Mexicans and 5,000 Americans will form the explanation.

On some of the streets it is hard to tell where a sidewalk ends and where the wagon road begins. And in this same street if one fell full length and got up and fell down three times he would be across the street. On many of the streets it is difficult for two average sized persons to walk side by side. Under some conditions they would make admirable "lover's lanes." None of the streets are paved, but gravel is sprinkled here and there. Some of the streets resemble the neck of a beer bottle in the way they flare out. I discovered only one street car line. As soon as pay day comes Frank and I intend indulging in a luxury—riding a street car from one end of the line to the other.

Pot-pouri of Residences. The distribution of residences is another source of amusement. Take palaces, medium or average and the lower class houses, place them in the palm of your hand and give them a whirl. Wherever they light after the mix-up will give an idea of the residential outlay. We do not find this city as marked in class distinction as the northern towns. There are very few three-story buildings but quite a number of two stories.

The Mexican is economical in saving space(?) The front part of his building, a 12 by 14 foot shanty, is his store room. Back of a cloth partition is the living, parlor, dining and bedroom. The store or building is right on the street. The better class houses have a front yard space ranging from six to twenty-four feet. There are some that are larger of course but these figures will hold for the average.

In the business part of town is the plaza with the band stand in the center. Sidewalks enter from the corners and centers of the sides. Among them are seats, palm trees, oleanders and other trees decorate the square. North of the square is the postoffice. On the west is the Mercy (Catholic) hospital. Both of these are practically new and modern buildings.

South of the hospital is a very ancient building, being used as a conservatory of music. On the south are residences and a fire house. A large cafe and the business houses are on the east.

Transfer Wagons Curbons. The most curious sight is the transfer wagons. The power of locomotion is a reduced size of Missouri's famous animal, known particularly around Denver as a burro. Behind them is drawn a two-headed cart with a specially constructed cart frame to carry their particular kind of freight. Cabin tugs, back straps of wood and burlap, "guiding" strings of rope form the harness equipment. It is very seldom that one sees the burros hitched.

We received the box sent by the ladies of the Christian church at Nevada. Cards bearing these names were in the packages and the boys wish to extend their thanks and best wishes to the women who donated the packages. The packages named were those of Mrs. J. D. Richey, Mrs. R. L. McDougal, Mrs.

Three special services will be held by Maryville churches tomorrow night—one on the high school lawn and at the First Methodist and Baptist churches.

Meetings of unusual interest are being held by the Union of Young People's Societies on the campus of the high school every Sunday evening during July from 7 to 8 o'clock. The meetings are a union of the Christian and Presbyterian Endeavorers and the Buchanan Street Epworth League.

The cabinet of the union has interested itself during the summer months in the question, "What is a Christian?" This was discussed in a previous meeting. Last Sunday the question was threshed out, "Can a Person Be a Christian Acceptable to God and Not Save Souls?" A negative conclusion was reached and so the following topic was set for tomorrow night:

"Since soul-saving is the fundamental privilege and duty of a Christian, why don't we do it?" Ten reasons (not excuses) will be discussed by the following:

"Lack of Zeal or Enthusiasm"—Philip Colbert.

"Indifference"—Don Roberts.

"Ignorance"—Mrs. Edward W. Gray.

"Selfishness"—Miss Bertha Anderson.

"Preoccupation"—Martin Lewis, Jr. Solo, "O Zion, Hasten"—Vernon Nash.

"Inconsistent Living"—Miss Frances Holliday.

"Hypocrisy"—Prof. A. J. Caulfield.

"Cowardice"—William Hutchison.

"Lack of Consecration"—Miss Myrtle McPherson.

"Disobedience"—Ed Gray.

Prof. W. J. Osburn, leader of the Normal orchestra, will again have charge of the music. The orchestra will have about a dozen instruments. The meeting will be held at the northwest corner of the building under the trees and folding chairs will be provided.

Musical Service at First M. E.

The Sunday evening services of the First Methodist church will be centered about the theme, "Music." Music in theory and in practice will be discussed by the Rev. Gilbert S. Cox in his sermon, "The Ministry of Music" and a first class musical program has been arranged to emphasize the "practical" element in the use of music. Here is the program:

Organ voluntary—Dr. D. J. Thomas. Anthem, "Only Fear the Lord" (Pinkham)—Double Quartet with violin obligato.

Violin Solos—(a) Arioso (Handel); (b) Aria, G string (Bach)—Fred Lewis Hakel with Miss Marie Reuillard at the piano.

Duet—Misses Nellie Wray and Maurice White.

Solo, "The Day Is Ended" (Bartlett)—Mr. G. S. Cox, with violin obligato. Anthem, "Sun of My Soul" (Turner)—Double Quartet.

Normal Students at Baptist.

Normal students who are members of the Baptist church will have charge of the evening worship there tomorrow night. The program has not been completed.

A HUGE SALIENT WEDGE

Irish Member of Parliament Charged With Conspiracy—Deutschland Officially a Merchantman.

Mrs. Oscar D. McDaniel, wife of the prosecuting attorney of Buchanan county, died at St. Joseph this morning the victim of assassins who had been threatening the life of her husband for his enforcement of law in St. Joseph and the county. McDaniel was fired at five times and returned the shots, escaping injury.

Mrs. McDaniel before her marriage was Miss Harriett Moss. She was a cousin of J. O. Pistole of Hopkins. Three children survive, the youngest two being asleep in an adjoining room during the tragedy. The oldest was away from home. Death was caused by her skull being crushed in by the butt of a revolver.

The prosecutor received a fake telephone call last night at 11:30 to come down and get his brother who was said to be drinking. When he arrived and found nobody, he suspected trouble and hurried back home. The assassin began to shoot at him as his auto entered the driveway of the home.

After exchanging five shots, the murderer fled and McDaniel rushed into his home to find his wife lying unconscious with brains oozing from her forehead. After calling the police and physicians, he collapsed. Mrs. McDaniel never regained consciousness. Every policeman and detective in the city was called into immediate service but little trace has been found.

Two Other Tragic Deaths.

St. Joseph was further stirred last night when Lee Woods, colored, a Union Station porter, almost cut his wife's head off with a razor because she had left him. She died instantly. Late yesterday afternoon the dead body of little Lorine Tye, 18 months old, was found in an old clay pit nine blocks from her home. No signs of violence were found and she is believed to have strayed away and fallen into the old hole.

Sheriff Ed Wallace here was notified at 5 o'clock this morning to be on the lookout for any suspicious characters. Later he received word that Mrs. McDaniel was dead but that no trace of the murderer had been found. The negro was captured this morning.

The Fourth district is to be congratulated that it has a representative in Congress who will not desert his post of duty to gratify his personal ambition.

It was Theodore Roosevelt, says the St. Joseph News-Press, who in 1913 said: "The party (Progressive) is solid, and it is the firm determination of the rank and file, no less than the leaders, to preserve its political entity, its solidity and integrity. * * * I would continue the fight even if I stood entirely alone." And it was the same Theodore Roosevelt who a few days ago said: "It has become entirely evident that the people are not prepared to accept a new party. * * * I cannot accept the nomination for a third ticket; I do not believe there should be a third ticket."

THE OUTLOOK.

The contest of 1916 is on, and for four months the parties will be busy circulating literature and appealing to voters. Our party has no walk away; it will not be an overwhelming victory, as in 1912, but the prospects are improving. The Democratic record of achievement is impregnable. The Republican candidate has not strengthened himself since his resignation—he has lost ground. It remains to be seen whether he can regain it in the speeches he plans to make. "Peace, prosperity and progress" are hard to attack. The president is growing—The Commoner.

However, in the next election Cleveland was defeated by Benjamin Harrison of Indiana by a vote of 233 to 168. Cleveland received a majority of the popular vote that year, nevertheless, Levi P. Morton of New York was elected vice president.

Cleveland then came back in the election of 1892 and defeated Harrison by a vote of 5,556,918 to 5,176,108. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois was elected vice president that year.

par excellent and ne plus ultra

It will also be the big crowd day. The whole population will be there, young and old, fat and lean, silk and jeans.

Farmer Jones will hitch up his spanking team of roadsters and drive in early, his surrey groaning under the load of six people at least. Farmer Smith will crank up his benzine buggy and hit only the high places along the road.

Auto parties from surrounding towns will come whirling in; big sixes, moderate priced fours, a few relics of the good old days when gasoline was cheap, and a perfect swarm of Fords.

SPIDER
Philosophy

When Mark Twain was editing the Virginia City "Enterprise". Writing copy one day and running the next, a superstitious subscriber once wrote and said he had found a spider in his paper. Was this good or bad luck? Twain replied to him in the "answer to correspondent" column as follows;

"Old Subscriber"—The finding of a spider in your copy of the "Enterprise" was neither good luck nor bad. The spider was merely looking over our pages to find out what merchant was not advertising so that it could spin its web across his door in anticipation of leading a free and undisturbed existence forever after."

Advertising consistently applied and backed by correct sales principles wins ever time. Inconsistent advertising does not win any more than any other inconsistent application. The great mass of buyers read advertising because they want, to and advertising, which is untruthful, or has something attached merely to gain attention or to cause it to be read is more apt to cause disapproval than to bring results.

BEST POULTRY BREED

For Eggs Alone, Leghorns Are Favored by Many Farmers.

White Wyandotte, White or Barred Plymouth Rocks or Rhode Island Reds Cannot Be Excelled for Dual-Purpose Fowls.

(By B. LARA.)

What is desired in the way of ultimate results must be considered when determining the breed of poultry one should raise. For eggs alone the Leghorns are by many regarded the best. It is not so good an all-purpose fowl, however, and for those breeding for meat as well as eggs, other strains are to be preferred.

For the farmer having not more than a hundred or two chickens, the White Wyandotte, White or Barred Plymouth Rocks, or Rhode Island Reds cannot be excelled.

The White Wyandottes are of medium size, hardy and good layers. They are easily cared for and bear confinement well, although any fowl must have plenty of exercise.

For table use they are excellent, their flesh being sweet, juicy and tender, making fine broilers and roasters. They are extremely popular because of the absence of dark pin feathers. As layers they average well up, both for summer and winter production. If some pains be taken to provide them with comfortable quarters during inclement weather.

To do this a fairly comfortable poultry house is necessary. This means one which is dry all the time and so arranged as to admit plenty of fresh air and sunlight.

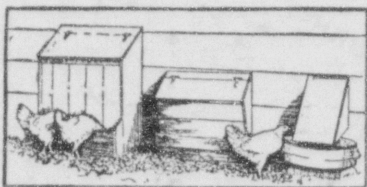

A house built with three sides tight and left largely open on the south side accomplishes this. A curtain, to be drawn tight over the opening in rigorous weather, will add materially to the comfort of the poultry. This does not exclude the fresh air, but protects against the cold.

This building can be conveniently arranged without the cost becoming very great, and it should be borne in mind that convenience pays well. Have all the interior fixtures of the poultry house—roosts, poles, nest boxes, dropping boards, etc., easily removable, so that every part within can be reached and cleaned.

Twice yearly the house should be thoroughly fumigated and then whitewashed inside and out. For this purpose a whitewash containing a small per cent of carbolic acid should be used.

All fowls are annoyed and suffer from insect parasites. This means a loss to the raiser and effective means must be employed to combat these pests, as the birds cannot do this unassisted. Provisions for a dust bath, any time, any day that the fowls desire, will help, but in addition to this the house and fixtures should be sprayed at frequent intervals with crude carbolic acid. This spraying should be done early in the day so that the fumes will have nearly all evaporated before the fowls go to roost.

During the summer the wide range afforded by the farm solves the problem as to proper feeding. But in winter when the fowls do not have insect diet, meat food in some form is necessary.

Feeding and Watering Devices.

essary. Table scraps and ground bone supply this very well. Lime, in the form of shells and old plaster, also is necessary and great care should be exercised that an abundance of fresh water is supplied.

At the present prices of eggs and poultry, chickens are too valuable to be neglected. It is safe to say that in return for their care and expense they are the greatest profit-earners on the farm.

CLEARMONT NEWS.

Jim Milbank received a car of corn the first of the week that he shipped in from Liberty, Neb.

At our business meeting last Saturday the church decided to have all time preaching, which speaks well for Clearmont Baptist church, also to install electric lights in the church.

The section boys last Thursday, while working on the track south of town, dug up $6.75 in silver, ranging in denominations from 5 cents up to $1.00. The money was two feet or more under ground. It had been lying there for some time, as the ground was sodded over and the coins were all badly corroded. The money was not in any purse or receptacle, just lying loose.

HOPKINS JOURNAL.

Charles Ewing and wife of Seymour, Ind., are guests in the home of his uncle, Capt. James Ewing. The junior Mr. Ewing is a mail carrier out of Seymour and has spent his annual vacation in Hopkins during the last twenty years. Captain Ewing is now 89 years of age and the visit of his favorite nephew cheers him up wonderfully.

Mr. Kent of Shelby, Mo., is here visiting his son, H. L. Kent. The senior Mr. Kent left here in 1882, since which time he has resided near Shelby, being a prominent farmer. He says we have that section of country distanced, so far as a prospect for a corn crop is concerned.

Rev. Homer M. Baker, who has been taking special work at the state university of Missouri for two years, has just accepted the pastorate of the Christian church at Portage La Prairie, Canada. He and his wife visited in the home of her mother, Mrs. Lettie Kime, in this city, last week.

Miss Lillie Cross of this city and Pearl May of Seward, Neb., were married July 5 and will make their home on the groom's farm, the two having become acquainted when Mr. May was with the dredge boat here. They have the best wishes of many friends.

PARNELL SENTINEL.

Did you see the judges of the lawn and alleys, etc.? They were here Friday and have you located and graded for the first grading. They'll be back. Get ready and keep ready for them. They're observing folks. Mrs. Gates was unavoidably absent and she sent Mrs. Clara Ruh as a substitute. Mrs. Gates, as previously planned, will be with us next time.

J. K. Yearly, J. T. Larmer, Charles DeLong and James Farr were up from Ravenwood Saturday night and attended I. O. O. F. encampment. After lodge ice cream and cake were served. Charles DeLong was installed high priest; J. H. Sobbing, warden; J. K. Yearly, junior warden; O. P. Carver, scribe; Thomas Collins, treasurer. The lodge here is in good shape both in numbers and financially.

Ravenwood will on Tuesday, July 31, vote on the proposition to bond the town for the purpose of allowing the Maryville Electric Light and Power company to install a system of electric lights. As Parnell is only about eight miles from Ravenwood why would it not be a business proposition for our people to have the Maryville people to extend their system here.

Quite a number of the farmers between here and Ravenwood would not doubt install lights. Let's take the matter up at once with the Maryville company and see what can be done. Electric lights would be a great thing for Parnell and vicinity.

BURLINGTON JUNCTION POST.

Dust to the right of us, dust to the left of us, dust in front of us—and all around us. Whew! Isn't it a fright? It was almost a coatless audience at the union services held in the Methodist church Sunday evening. The pastors had requested the men to not hesitate about coming to services without their coats if the weather was warm.

The weather was warm—in fact it was hot—and members of the congregation invited their pastors "not to hesitate" about removing their coats also. And now, both the pastor and his congregation can be a little more comfortable during the hours of service.

The editor of the Post thought he was cutting quite a swath last week when he took a four days' vacation and received such a complimentary write-up from Mr. Weaver, acting editor-in-chief of the Post, but "Deacon" Moorehead, Nodaway county's George Ade, and incidentally publisher of the Hopkins Journal, goes a mile better by issuing his paper one day early this week, locking up shop and motoring to Excelsior Springs to spend the remainder of the week. Such cheerful extravaganzas makes us catch our breath.

The Sunday school class of Rev. Horace S. Weaver enjoyed a picnic on the Nodaway river Friday. They spent the day making scouting trips in the woods, bathing at the favorite "swimming hole" near the W. W. Jones farm and eating a big picnic dinner. The lads were chaperoned by Mr. Weaver and W. G. Saylor.

Constable Bob Jones and Velmer Ferris of Maryville were in Burlington Junction Tuesday morning. They had been to Clearmont where they recovered a bicycle, which was stolen from the Ferris boy last week. According to the boy's story a strange youth offered him a nickel to let him ride the wheel around the block. Velmer accepted the proposition—and it was the last he saw of the bicycle until Tuesday. Francis Curry, who it was stole the wheel, could not be located by the officer Tuesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Nicholas, who left the home of Mrs. J. E. Carpenter near Clearmont at 7 o'clock Monday morning, July 3, wrote relatives here that they arrived in Cheyenne, Wyo., at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The distance was about 600 miles, making an average of over 150 miles a day. They are enjoying their trip fine, having no difficulty in securing plenty of fresh provisions along the route. The last supply of gas Charles bought before reaching Cheyenne cost him 26 cents a gallon.

INSURGENTS WIN. 309 DIRECTORS

The two men nominated on each side are for the three Missouri members of the board required by law. By an agreement, lots are to be drawn after their election to decide which shall have the three, two and one-year terms.

"All Want Fair Play"—Mayer.
When Judge Mayer finished the criminal cases and began the election, he said: "I feel certain that we all have just one desire and that is to get an expression of opinion from the stockholders of this corporation. That means that we must have fair play and I propose to have that if my understanding of the case and intelligence is sufficient to get it."

"I do request, therefore, that the attorneys make no objections or offer no impediments merely because there is a fight on but only when they think an injustice is being done to their side. Let's do this business in such a way that this controversy shall be settled when this election is finished."

The first question was that of the method of electing the nine directors. The law provides the cumulative method, that is, that all nine shall be voted on together. But it also provides that three must be from Missouri. This presents practical difficulties and it was agreed by the attorneys to vote on all three Missouri men together and then all six from other states together. Judge Mayer ruled that such an agreement would stand in law if agreed upon by both sides.

The court then requested George Robb Ellison, attorney for the directors, and F. P. Robinson, counsel for the "insurgents," to sit with him in canvassing the proxies. This consumed all of the time for the rest of the morning. Secretary Ray Davis was called with the stock records to assist in the canvass.

The stockholders spent the time "milling" around in the courthouse yard and arguing the proposition over the ice cream tables across the street. The strongest rumor afloat is that a large number of stockholders are very dissatisfied with the fight. It is confidently believed by many that another record will be started in Kansas City no matter which way the election today should go.

According to this story, this new record would merge in a few years with the American and the offices would be left in Kansas City.

Mrs. Roy Sharp and children, Mary Ruth and Roy Beverly, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Buster of Tarkio Thursday and Friday.

HE MOVED HIS WELL.

It Wasn't Pulled Up Nor Sawed Up, but It Did Change Place.

There is an old story about the man who pulled up a well and took it to a more desirable location and another about the man who took up a well, sawed it in sections and used one of the sections for a hand roller. They were exaggerations, but the experience of Ezra Telford proves that a well can't always be classed as a permanent fixture. Ezra had a well in front of his house. It had never been a success as a well. Ezra wanted it filled up. One way would have been to haul stones or earth and use the material to fill it. But Ezra had no team.

So he went at it with a shovel. Working on the side of the well next to the road, he began to dig and to throw the dirt into the well. He kept this up until he had filled it, which was not a difficult job, as the well was rather shallow.

But when the task seemed finished Ezra found that he had made a new hole by the side of the one he had been filling. There was but one thing to do—he proceeded to fill it in the same manner. Of course this resulted in still another excavation, which in turn received similar treatment.

As all of Ezra's digging had been on the side of the well nearest the road, the result was that the hole in the ground was finally moved out into the highway.

Judson Tolliver was commenting on the exploit one day down at the corners. "Queer thing Ezra did," he remarked. "You know that old well that stood in his front yard? Well, sir, he's moved it thirty feet from where it was—'goved it clear out into the road'."

"How'd he do it?" inquired another representative citizen.
"You'll have to ask Ezra," replied Judson. "But he did it, sure enough. I saw the well in the road yesterday, and I saw the track he made movin' it. The thing plowed a furrow four feet wide all the way."—Youth's Companion.

OUR GOLD CERTIFICATES.

Why These Notes Have Never Been Made Legal Tender.

Answering the question, "Why are gold certificates not legal tender?" the New York Times says:

The first gold certificate act was passed in 1863, and at that time the issuance of these certificates was confined to certificates drawn to order. It was not until later that bearer certificates were put out.

These certificates were issued at the request of New York banks which at that time were handling large amounts of gold and which sought the issuance of gold certificates by the government as a matter of convenience, thus obviating the constant handling and rehandling of gold coin. These certificates were regarded not so much as money as warehouse certificates for money, being exchangeable at all times upon demand for the actual coin.

The question of making the certificates legal tender was not, to the knowledge of the authority consulted, discussed when this suggestion of the New York banks was carried into effect by act of congress. The fact that it was decided, to begin with, to limit these certificates to certificates to order would have been a barrier in the way of making them legal tender had the suggestion been advanced.

So much for the authorization of gold certificates and their not being made legal tender then. Financial authorities point out that there has been in the years since no practical need for taking this step. Gold certificates are in practice accepted as in every way as good as the gold itself, and they are immediately convertible into legal tender by surrender and exchange into gold.

Roasting Coffee.

A good chunk of money can be saved in a year by roasting your own coffee, and it is not so hard at that. All that is needed is a good big heavy skillet. Before roasting a pound of green coffee put in a chunk of butter the size of an almond mixed with a teaspoonful of sugar. Roast on the stove or flame, steadily shaking and stirring in the old fashioned double shuffle way until all is a uniform rich brown. Shake fast when coffee "pops" or smokes. Please don't burn. The butter and sugar surely help the flavor, aroma and bouquet of the delicious drink. But the butter must be good and not too much used at one time. The smaller the quantity to do the job right the better.—New York Press.
